

THE TWILITE BROADCASTERS

“The Twilite Broadcasters are thankfully preserving the seemingly almost-lost “brother duet” style of two-part harmony vocals that are at the roots of country, bluegrass, and rock music. Their harmonies and acoustic accompaniment are expertly crafted, and their reverence for the classic tunes of the Louvin, Monroe, & Delmore Brothers and others is undeniable.” -Martin Anderson, Music Director, WNCW

“The Trail of Time captures the spirit of just not America – but the heart and soul of the musical genre we so broadly call Country.” -Jason Gladu- Stage Door Music Review

“For me though, the most remarkable of their talents is their brother harmonies-- taking a leaf from The Louvin Brothers and other country classics, The Twilite Broadcasters employ potently sweet close harmonies that add poignancy to each track” -No Depression

“The Trail of Time is a highly evocative record. Each track draws out memories, whether personal or part of the collective consciousness. The Twilite Broadcasters are capable and caring archivists of those memories and under their stewardship these traditional songs are breathed new life.” -Bad Tempered Zombie

“A superior record. Heartbreaking, intensely beautiful and a pleasure for your ears.” -Alt-Country Forum, Netherlands
